cun? Advance billing put the global economic conference here in the ranks of historic world summits. But rather than a giant step for mankind, it produced a small step toward better understanding.

For 2½ days, among the beachfront paims and around a giant conference table on this sandy island, leaders of 22 nations talked of tariffs, credits and currency, as well as the needs of fishermeo, tea prices and cotton supplies, and the virtues and shortcomings of private enterprise and socialism

Eveo those who took part in the North-South summit here are oot sure whether the name Cancun will become a byword for a new era of global relations or the hollow symbol of opportunity wasted.

The view emerging from statemeots by some of the 22 world leaders who participated in the two days of informal talks is that much will depend oo what concrete progress is oow made toward bridging the gap between the rich and poor worlds.

What grew from the unusual and relative informal dialogue was a "spirit of Cancun," concluded Mexican Presideot Jose Lopez Portillo, a co-chairman of the summit. "It is a spirit of solidarity, of co conciliatioo and of harmooy," be said.

i0}

The spirit may prove fruitful over the long run. But the Cancun summit, which produced no major specific agreemeots, falls short of its original mandate.

The debate oo Third World-sponsored plans to reform international economic relations oow shifts from the Cancun summit back to the United Nations, where it has been stalled for the past seven years. But a U.N. spokesman and several heads of state said the mere fact that the 22 world leaders who

Third Wnrld nations have always insisted on bolding North-South talks at the U.N. General Assembly, where a small country's vote is equal to that of a big nation.

Untill recently some industrialized countries said trade and money issues could be discussed only at specialized agencies such as the World Bank and the International Mon-etary Fund, where the big powers have weietary ghted votes.

Philippine Presideot Ferdinand Marcos and Algerian President Chadli Beojedid, among others, expressed cautious optimism that the North-South dialogue would resume with renewed vigor at the United Nations.

The Cancun declaration is "a definite step forward" from previous commitments by industrialized countries to work for global ocgotiations, according to U.N. spokesman Rudolph Stajduhar.

Muhammad Bedjaoui, Algerian Ambassador to the United Nations, said Third World countries will start consultations this week at the United Natioos to see "what our next step will be."

He said the consultations would take place among the 123 members of the "group of 77," and would last oo more than "a few days or a few weeks."

President Francois Mitterrand Sunday said the first North-Sooth summit in Mexico last week "did oot go far enough" in pursuing the dialogue betweeo industrial and developing oations.

Mitterrand, who returned to Paris Sunday told reporters that the 22 leaders of rich and poor oations had made some " real progress" at the meeting in Cancun, particularly oo global negotiations, energy issues, the development of world food reserves and a policy of agricultural production in poor natioos.

Mitterrand's policies oo narrowing the economic gap betweeo industrial and developing oations are in direct cootrast to those of the administration of U.S. Presideot Ronald Reagan.

With the participation of India and China, the world's two most populous nations, the summit represented more than half the 4.5 billioo people in the world.

Veto of the $8.5 billion arms deal that includes five AWACS radar planes would be an embarrassing defeat for the Republican presideot who, until oow, has shown a remarkable ability to get his way in tough confrontations with Congress. But White House spokesman Larry Speakes told repor-ters aboard Air Force Ooe Saturday that "the picture is still good."

"We think it is brighter than it appears," Speakes said during Reagan's return flight to Washington from the international economic summit in Cancun, Mexico. Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker Jr. of Tennessee, who is leading the fight to avert a Senate veto, also maintains that the battle "is still emineotly winnable." But the optimistic views are disputed by Senate opponeots who appear to have the numbers on their side.

The latest Associated Press survey of the Seoate found 52 opposing the sale, 36 supporting it and nine uncommitted. One secator is regarded as leaning toward supporting the package while two are leaning against it.

Just before Reagan left for the ecocomic summit meeting in Cancun, it was looking as though he would pull out another victory oo Capitol Hill. But his momeotum was halted when Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia declared his oppositioo to the sale.

The House already has voted against the deal by a 3-to-1 margin, but the sale will go through unless the Seoate also votes against it. No presideot has ever beeo denied the power to sell weapoos abroad by Coogress. Reagan was enroute to Cancun wheo Byrd

Baker insisted Thursday that the oppositioo still oumbered under 50 votes. The Republican leader said be counted just over 40 votes in favor." It is oot dead," Baker said. "It is very much alive and you mustn't write it off yet."

113 airlines begin conference today

CANNES, France, Oct. 25 (R) - Chief executives of 113 airlines begin a three-day conference here Mooday to discuss the international air transport industry's bleak future and map out a commoo strategy for survival.

The world's major airlines collectively expect operating losses of $1.1 billion this year, the worst financial result since records began in 1947. And prospects for the next few years are even dimmer, officials said.

More than 300 executives and senior officials of airlines belonging to the Montrealbased International Air Transport Association (1ATA) are attending its 37th annual general meeting. In a report prepared for the coofereoce, IATA Director General Kout Hammarsjkjold said that the airlines could nnly work together to improve global, interdependent air transport facilities under a multilateral system.

The report said that giveo the choice of an uncoordinated free-for-all between airlines, a total reliance on market forces or an integrated worldwide oetwork of air services based oo airline and government cooperation "the almost unanimous verdict bas been strongly in favor of the multilateral approach internationally."

clemeocy judgmeot was the first applicatioo of a oew law designed to eocourage defections of terrorist extremists.

No clemency was extended to earlier "repentant" terrorists such as Roberto San-, dalo during the receot trial in Turin of members of "Froot Line", Italy's foremost terrorist group after the Red Brigades. The sharpfaced, intellectual-looking Viscardi, 28, took part in a hold-up on Aug. 11 last year during which two policemen were killed. After his arrest ooe year ago, he began to collaborate actively with police, going so far as to lead them oo a long and complicated trail to several"Froot Line" hide-outs and arms caches.

His long-time accomplice, Roberto Vitelli, would not join Viscardi in actively collaborating with the police, restricting himself merely to dissociating himself from terrorism and condemning it publicly. But Vitelli was giveo no clemency by the judges, and was handed a life sentence for his part in the hold-up.

Viscardi also spilled the details of several "Front Line" operations including the killings of two Milan judges. He gave the names of his accomplices in the 1979 fatal attack on Judge Emilio Alessandrini and the 1980 shooting of Judge Guido . Galli.

French peace activists and the wife of U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim were scheduled to address the crowd. Estimates of the size of the crowd varied but police put the figure at between 50,000-60,000.

International race begins to carve up space

GENEVA, Oct. 25 - A race has begun among governments and corporations to carve up space. The prize is to establish communications satellites which could yield billions of dollars in profits.

Launching a satellite remains ridden with hazards, but once in orbit it is vastly superior to land-based systems for voice and data transmission, televisioo and radio broadcasting — and military intelligence.

Texas Instruments, which bas a satellitebased network linking 50 plants worldwide, has cut communication costs by half since the system was put in place 10 years ago.

A leader in privately owned satellite communicatioos is SBS - Satellite Business Systems --- a joint vecture between IBM and the Aetna Insurance Company. SBS plans to create a reotal service probably costing each client at least $100,000 a month but likely to save them millions. About 20 have already signed up, although the service is still being set up.

The referee in this international race is the Geneva-based International Telecommunications Union, a U.N. agency which regulates the use of radio frequencies and satellite space.

One of its main tasks is to cosure that the developing countries do not get left out. The fear of such countries is that by the time they put together the occessary resources oo more room will he left for them.

Social experts study development centers

RIYADH, Oct. 25 (SPA) — Gulf labor. and social affairs experts resumed their meetings at King Khaled conference hall here Sunday. The experts committee, which began meeting Saturday night, discussed the significance of development centers in the Gulf societies based on a study about the area's environment.

The committee reviewed the civil contribution of the development centers to promote social development in Gulf states.

Ahmad Muhammad Al-Yahya, the Kingdom's deputy minister for labor affairs and the current chairman of the session, said that the Saudi Arabian delegation submitted a number of proposals regarding the basic factors of social development in the Gulf in compliance with its religious and traditional values: The Kingdom's proposals concentrated on avoiding all "imported socialdevelopment methods," Yahya said.

Comprised of representatives from Kuwait, Iraq, Bahrain, Qatar, Oman, the UAE and Saudi Arabia, the committee began its deliberations Saturday night after an opening session in the morning chaired by Labor and Social Affairs Minister Sheikh Ibrahim Al-Anqari.

Following the three hour session, Yahya said that the committee discussed recommending member countries to recruit Arabmanpower and replacing non-Arab workers with Arab personnel. The recommendation also covers providing maximum facilities for the recruitment of Arabs.

Other topics, discussed included an initiative to be adopted by the member states to introduce Arabic as an official language at the International Child Care Federation. The committee stressed that the use of Arabic language in the international organizations affirms the role of Arab-Islamic culture and the effective Arab emergence. This issue will be submitted to the Arab Social Affairs Ministers' Council at its December session in Tunisia to seek collective Arab support and, adoption.

Delegates also agreed that one or more states can be nominated among Gulf states for membership of international organizations and institutions concerned with labor and social affairs. The subject will be presented at the Gulf Labor and Social Affairs Ministers' Council during its upcoming meeting.

In a separate development, King Khaled thanked the labor and social affairs minister, Sheikh Ibrahim Al-Anqari, Sunday for his efforts and that of the General Organization for Social Insurance (GOSI) personnel in contributing to the Kingdom's development plan. The King made the comment after reviewing GOSI's annual statistical report. Crown Prince Fahd also expressed his thanks to the minister and all GOSI workers on the same occasion, wishing them further success.

The report contains the nrganization's activities since the application of the social insurance system, in 1973, until 1979. The report stated that 1,346 million workers and their families from both the private and public sectors arc covered under the system. It stresses the service rendered to the national economy and development plan by the subscribers and their families.

The report also includes various statistics, which give a clear picture for planners and researchers providing all the necessary details for study and research purposes.

OAU official visits Chad to study issue

NAIROBI. Oct. 25 (R) — OAU Secretary-General Edem Kodjo has gone to Chad to assess the situation in the central African state at the request of Kenyan President Daniel Arap Moi, the Kenya News Agency reported Saturday,

It said Moi, current president of the OAU (Organization of African Unity), had also asked several African countries to provide troops for a peacekeeping force to serve in; Chad. "As soon as I am able to assemble a force with adequate strength to maintain peace and order, I shall arrange for the troops to move into Chad without delay," Mni was quoted as saying,

He said a message from French President Francois Mitterrand Friday, asking for the urgent dispatch of an OAU force to Chad, came as the OAU was already making these arrangements. The agency also reported that Kodjn would visit Algería, Mnrocco and Mauritania to discuss speedy implementation of OAU proposals for a ceasefire and a referendum in Western Sahara, where Algerian-backed Philsario guerrillas are fighting against Moroccan rule.

President Moi's statement followed discussions at the state house at Nakuru, 160 kms from Nairobi, with Kodjo and Kenyan Foreign Minister Robert Ouko. The agency said Mní had also received a special message from Chadian President Goukouni Oueddei. It was delivered by the justice minister of Chad, Moi said in his statement that an OAU implementation committee on Western Sahara, set up at the OAU summit in Nairobi last June, would meet next month after Kodjo had reported back to him.

Referring to Chad, Moi said he had had. consultations with the Chadian president and other African leaders on the formation nf a peacekeeping force to replace Libyan troops now in Chad. "A number of countries have: already responded favorably to my appeal and pledged troops of various strength," he said. "I have today sent an envoy to several other African countries with a similar request for troops, " Moi added. In Algiers, the Algerian government tewspaper El Mujahid welcomed new pros-pects for an OAU peacekeeping force in Chad, announced Saturday by OAU secretary-general. But the paper said the force on its own was not enough to restore peace to a country which needed above all aid which would "guarantee the indispensible attributes nf national sovereignty," especially an integrated national army.

El Mujakid was suspicious nf new United States interest in Chad, which it attributed to the "evident" desire of Washington to "include a Chadian element in its regional strategy, epecially if nne considers that Chad has a frontier with Libya."

Meanwhile, the Chadian Foreign Minister Acyl said in a statement that the withdrawal nf Libyan forces from Chad is a question solely for the Chadian people and the Transitinnal Gnvernment of National Unity (GUNT).

Acyl spoke of "the need for the varied assistance supplied by the Libyan people to the Chadian people, which is under a perpetual threat nf external aggressinn," and added," we are certain that this indispensable fraternal support will not weaken." BEIRUT, Oct. 25 (Agencies) — Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) Chairman Yasser Arafat has accepted an invitation from Greece's new Socialist Prime Minister Andreas Papandreou to pay an official visit to Greece, the Palestine news agency Wafa said Saturday.

Papandreou, in a letter to Arafat released m Athens Friday, invited Arafat to Athens to discuss the upgrading of the PLO office in the Greek capital. In a statement reported by Wafa, Arafat said be had accepted the invita-tion from Papandreou, whom he described as his friend and brother.

Meanwhile, in Tel Aviv, the Israeli Foreign Ministry Saturday deploted Greece's deci-sion to officially recognize the PLO. "We wish the Greek government would reexamine the opportuneness of this decision." a ministry spokesman said on Israeli radio. "Israel is deeply concerned and surprised at the invitation to (PLO chief) Yasser Arafat to make an official visit to Athens."

The Greek government's statement, in the wake nf election victories by Prime Minister Andreas Papandreou's Socialist Party, was seen as a serious diplomatic setback for Israel's fight against international recogni-tion of the PLO. Diplomatic tension over the affair is beightened by the fact that, despite close economic ties. Greece does not officially recognize Israel.

It is represented there only by a delegation in Tel Aviv. Israeli sources say this is because Greece wants in preserve large Greek minorities in Arab countries.

In Kuwait, the Arabic language newspaper Al-Anbaa said firmer U.S. White House National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski has revealed that he met. Arafat in Algiers in 1979.

TEL AVIV, Oct. 25 (Agencies) — Egyp-tian Foreign Minister Kamal Hassan Ali, arriving on the first ministerial visit to Israel since the assassination of President Anwar Sadat, said Sunday that Egypt still had a firm determination to proceed with the peace pro-

All's three-day visit to Israel includes meetings with Prime Minister Menahem Begin, Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir and Defense Minister Ariel Sharon, Sharon, greeting Ali on his arrival, also emphasized that All's visit showed that the peace process was continuing.

"Your visit according to a timetable set long ago," Sharon said, "only shows the determination of our two governments to continue with the peace process." Sharon said he believed that Israel and Egypt would "move forward to solve more of the problems we have to solve, and I believe the peace will last forever."

Ali said, "Our meeting is a profound ans-wer to all those who tried to spread doubts that the peace process depended solely on the person of our late President Sadat." Ali, who also is deputy prime minister, said Sadat's successor, Hosni Mubarak, had a "strong mandate from the people of Egypt" to pro-

N. Yemen president arrives in Moscow

MOSCOW, Oct. 25 (R) - North Yemen President Ali Abdullah Saleh arrived in Moscow Sunday for talks with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev.

The talks will cover bilateral relations and ways of developing cooperation in all fields as well as Arah and international issues, officials said. The Yemeni leader, whose country receives Soviet military and economic aid, is accompanied by a high-level delegation, including the minister of foreign affairs and the head of the general state corporation for petroleum and mineral resources. President Saleh's visit is expected to last several days.

Meanwhile, Israeli, American and Egyptian negotiators began fresh talks on autonomy for Palestinians in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip. The talks, which resumed in Tel Aviv with three sessions last week, have been largely sterile since opening in June, 1979. Israeli sources said they hoped Ali would authorize some softening in the Egyptian attitude. Officials were pinning hopes for progress on the Palestinian issue on scheduled meetings between Ali and Interior Minister Yosef Burg, who heads a government committee dealing with self-rule for the Palestinians.

In the meantime, Israeli opposition leader Shimon Peres Sunday met with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak in Cairo and was confident the Middle East peace process would continue. Peres told reporters in Cairo after a one-hour meeting with Mubarak that be was convinced Egypt would maintain its relations with Israel. He said Muharak stated in clear terms that the peace process "is not limited to anything .. it will go on."

Mubarak, who was meeting an Israeli leader for the first time since becoming president, was in favor of normalization of relations between the two countries and was optimistic that an agreement on the basic principles for Palestinians self-rule would be reached, Peres added. He said his Labor Party supported the peace process.

Peres arrived earlier Sunday to convey his condolences on the death of Sadat. He said after his meeting with Mubarak: " I found him leading his country with the same decisiveness, determination and optimism," as the late leader. Peres said he did not discuss with Mubarak the recent statement by Shamir that Jordan was the Palestinian state and that talks on Palestinian autonomy were not intended to create another Arah state.

Peres said that Muharak had told him that he hoped soon to see the two governments reach an "agreement in principle" on the Palestinian autonomy planned under the Camp David arrangements.

CAIRO, Oct. 25 (AP) - A toreign ministry spokesman Saturday criticized a statement by Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir ruling out the establishment of a Palestinian state in occupied areas.

Ex-U.S. envoy sees end of Camp David

BEIRUT, Oct. 25 (R) - The former United States ambassador to Syria, Tolcott Seelye, said in an interview published Sunday he expected the Camp David peace process between Israel and Egypt to come to an end by next summer. After that, he told the Beirut Englishlanguage weekly magazine Monday Morn ing, the U.S. adminstration would look for a new Middle East peace framework taking greater account of "legitimate Palestinian aspirations." Seelye, a U.S. diplomat in the Arab world for much of the past 30 years, left Damascus two months ago and resigned from government service last week.

Reagan sends note to Begin

TEL AVIV, Oct. 25 (R) - President Reagan has sent Prime Minister Menahem Begin a message reaffirming that an under-standing on Israeli-U.S. strategic cooperation would he implemented, Israeli officials. said here Sunday.

President Reagan had said he was determined to put into effect a strategic cooperation agreement approved during a visit by Begin to Washington last month, according to the officials. He said he was concerned about Israel's security and that all American commitments would he honored, they said.

The officials said the message was seen here as an attempt by Reagan to show Israel's friends in the U.S. Senate that the Jewish state would not be harmed by the sale of advanced radar surveillance planes to Saudi Arabia. The officials said Begin had already replied to the message.

By that time, I think, everybody will have realized that we aren't getting anywhere."

The former envoy described as "very sound" the recently-announced Saudi Arabian Middle East peace plan calling for Israeli withdrawal to its 1967 frontiers and the creation of a Palestinian state," I think it is a reasonable plan and I think it could serve as the basis for a new formula, he said of Crown Prince Fahd's plan.

PEACE MARCHES

The current spate of European marches in favor of disar-mament in Europe has taken the form of a peace offensive underscoring the anxieties of the people and fear of a nuclear war. The superpowers, the U.S. and the Soviet Union may be saved from devastation if they limit their war to Europe alone, or so the organizers of the marches believe. It will not be possible to know how the East Europeans feel about all this because they will not be permitted to express their feelings as freely as the West Europeans are doing.

The Europeans have a point. Their anxieties are justified and it is enough to remember that their part of the continent has thousands of nuclear weapons stationed in it, according to Willy Brandt recently, and thousands of other nuclear warheads aimed directly at it. In any real confrontation Europe will be the first to disappear. Other countries and peoples will also disappear although a little later on. But since Europe depends on the U.S. nuclear umbrella to confront the might of the Soviet Union it cannot opt out for disarmament or neutrality for the simple reason that the Soviet Union will not, by any stretch of imagination respect its wishes and allow it to live in peace and freedom. The American umbrella is essential for the preservation of European independence and sovereignty. Even the withdrawal of Soviet missiles from Eastern Europe against the withdrawal of American missiles from Western Europe will not be eoough to allay the fears of the European populations because the Soviet Union will still be able to wipe out Europe from Soviet bases. This may be done without recourse to nuclear weapons, through a conventional invasion which the U.S. will not be able to thwart without recourse to nuclear weapons.

PLO's role essential for genuine M.E. peace

By Doyle Mcmanus

Two old adversaries, Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford, breached Washington's customary discretion on the issue of the Palestine Liberation Organization recently to reveal an often-obscured, biparti-. san consensus: If the United States ever hopes to arrange a genuine peace betweeo Israel and the Arabs, the two former presideots said bluntly, then it must some day negotiate with the PLO.

"There is no way for Israel ever to have an assured, permaneot peace without resolving the Palestinian issue," said Democrat Carter. "In a realistic way," agreed Republican Ford, "that dialogue (with the PLO) has to take place if you're really going to come to grips with the last issues that are oo the table."

The circumstances of the interview - two former Presidents aboard an air force jet, returning from the funeral of President Sadat in Egypt - were unprecedented, But the message was oot. Ford and Carter were repeating a teoet of U.S. Middle East policy that has been voiced frequeotly in private, but rarely in public: The PLO should be brought into the peace process. More remarkable was the answer from President Reagan, who decounced the PLO during his 1980 campaign "a gang of thugs."

"There oever has been any refusal to talk with the PLO," the presideot said two weeks ago. "There has been only a coodition: until they would recognize the right of Israel to exist as a nation, which they still have oever done." That was the nicest thing Ronald Reagan has ever said about the PLO. Indeed, it sounded almost like a public invitation: If Yasser Arafat would only acknowledge Israel's legitimacy as a state and its right to security, the doors of the White House would open. But there is little chance that Arafat will respond. The PLO chairman basheard the same offer before, during the Carter administration, and turned it down. At least twice, the PLO has been offered tacit recognioon by the United States and a place in direct negotiations with Israel, approached the point of compromise - and drew back.

Quite simply, Arafat wants more in exchange for recognizing Israel than merely the right to talk to the U.S. government. After all, the PLO already talks to the U.S. government — through Arah government emments through contacts with the Central Intelligence Agency, through private intermediaries, and occasionally through the American Embassy in Beirut.

What Arafat wants, instead, is some form of explicit U.S. recognition of the PLO as a legitimate representative of the 4 million Palestinians, and an American commitment to help establish a Palestinian homeland. Neither appears within reach.

Predictably, Arafat and his associates blame American and Israeli intransigeoce for the impasse. At last spring's Palestine Nadonal Council in Damascus, Syria, several American reporters cornered Khaled Hassan, a high official in Arafat's Fatch commando group who has visited Washington intermittently. He was asked why the PLO found it so difficult to make gestures of moderation toward the United States. Hassan who lives in Kuwait, bitterly recounted the Reagan administratico's charges that the PLO is merely party of a Soviet-sponsored terrorist network. "When we get attacked like that," he said "where do yoo find the possibilities for negotiation? And what do you expect us to tell the boys in the camps?"

an admitted, though As Has mere are "domes threatened to quit the organization if he did, and the idea was dropped.

Behind the catch phrases Arafat repeats in his every interview lies a deep and abiding suspicion of Israel and the United States. It is well-founded. Israel's government has never disguised its con-tempt for the exiled Palestinians or its goal of eliminating the PLO as a political force. While the United States has held cootacts with the PLO since 1974 (when President Richard Nixon and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger decided to open secret lines of communication), no U.S. administration has accepted the "moderate" Palestinians" goal of an independent state that could live in peace with Israel.

In the past year, the climate for a rapprochement with the United States has become worse, not better, in the eyes of the Palestinians. The Reagan administratioo swept into office with a flurry of anti-Palestinian statements that one PLO moderate charged were "incitements to I sraeli military interventioo." Israel bombed Palestinian positioos in southern Lebanoo, a nuclear reactor in Iraq and the PLO headquarters area in Beirut; the United States did oot appear willing or able to restrain in client state. In recent months, Israel has deescalated its military attacks on Palestinian forces in Lebanoo; but dozens of bombs have exploded in PLOdominated areas of Lebanon and several PLO officials have been assassinated in an u surge of what the Palestinians say is "Israeli terrorism." The government of Prime Minister Menahem Begin has continoed to expand the Isracli presence oo the West Bank, the heart of the PLO's envisioned Palestinian state, by increasing the number and size of Jewish settlements there, with no effective protest from the United States. And the Reagan administration, in its attempts to construct an Israeli-Arab "strategie consensus" to confront the Soviet Union, has exhibited little interest in the question of Palestine. Unless the United States decides to work toward some kind of homeland that will satisfy their nationalistic yearnings, Arafat's men argue, the PLO and the United States have little to talk about.

Cancun summit: A test of rich-poor ties

By Harvey Morris

CANCUN Merico ---

The 22-oation North-South summit was a test of relations among the industrialized Western powers as well as of those between them and the Third . World. Eight industrialized countries were represented at the conference which ended Friday ---the United States, Britain, Canada, France, West Germany, Australia, Sweden and Japan.

The conference, the first of its kind involving leaders of the developed and developing worlds, follows East-West tension in which Washington's Western allies have often been at odds with the anti-Sovietism of the Reagan administratioo. Summit statements by leaders of both rich and poor countries indicated a generalized fear that failure to achieve progress oo closing the economic gap that divides the world could lead to instability which in its turn, could lead to a superpower war.

Consistantly repeated themes were those of the oced to boost trade for the benefit of both sides of the poverty divide and the belief that self-interest as much as moral obligation dictated the need for greater aid from the developed to the Third World. Uotil Cancun some Western leaders appeared to take the view that President Reagan had presented. a deaf ear to the demands of poor countries and was thereby providing a motive for the Soviet expansioo into the Third World that he so deplored. The new Socialist presideot of France, Francois Mitterrand, came out at the opposite pole to President Reagan oo several issues in receot months. He recognized guerrillas in El Salvador as a legitimate political movement at a time wheo the U.S. leader saw them as pawns of the Kremlin. Diplomatic sources say Reagan's hardline foreign policy stance prompted some Western leaders to seek a way of improving ties with the Third World. The breakthrough came when Reagan agreed to attend the summit. His presence, as representative of the world's largest aid donor, was thought vital to its success. But Reagan came to the summit isolated. He was lukewarm on issues such as global negotiations to solve key development issues and opposed to others, such as the fund to help poor countries develop their energy resources. At earlier, lower-level talks on North-South issues Britain and West Germany together with the United States had in recent years formed a conser-Vative triumvirate when it came to expanding aid mechanisms, according to foreign aid experts. But even before the summit opened both the European . partners had declared themselves, eveo if only conditionally, in favor of the main points before the conference. There was widespread concern that if the summit failed it would play into the hands of the unrepresented Soviet Union, which said the gathering was merely a means whereby the rich would maintain their hold over the poor. Once the summit began, delegates from both North and South deplored the absence of the Soviet Union, dismissing its claims that world poverty was the responsibility solely of the former colonial powers. Oo a practical level some industrialized countries, particularly the United States and Britain, sought to preach the benefits of private enterprise as a means of expanding Third World economies at the same time as helping the rich North out of its current recession. But most acknowledged, like Britain, that direct aid was still vital to help the poorest countries of the world escape from dire poverty. A topic that looks certain to engage the industrial powers as they go into future stages of the North-South dialogue is whether the financial institutions set up after World War II, are still relevant or whether as the Third World claims, they must give way to a new economic order: The United States showed at Cancun that it wants to preserve the status quo which gives it and its major Western partners a dominating role in such international bodies as the Word Bank. Other, developed countries take a different view and implicitly accept, for example, that the newly rich oil-producing countries should have a greater say in the distribution of loans for energy exploitation Rì

The peace marches are understandable expressions of anxiety but the alternative - a nuclear-free Europe - is daunting, since this will tip the balance vastly in favor of the Soviet Union.

The solution lies in a greater framework of disarmament involving serious negotiations between the two big powers and the Europeans - that is between NATO and the Warsaw pact. Then only can something meaningful be achieved to reduce the insane expenditure on armaments and set aside part of it to help the needy peoples of the world.

Sunday's newspapers commented on the Kingdom's huge contributions in assisting a number of international development projects and on Crown Prince Fahd's address at the Cancun summit calling for eradication of wide differences and gaps in the technological progress.

One typical comment: "Better a guided democracy under the generals than a misguided democracy under the politicians." But with the passing of time, the geoerals' popularity is bound to decline.

The politicians of course, are stunned. They are likely to continue discreet political activity, although their party organizations have been liquidated. The Consultative Assembly will be made np almost entirely of uncontroversial personalities whose views are essentially centrist, in so far as they have political views at all.

The intellectual caliber will be high - a large proportion are university professors, lawyers and doctors of medicine. The president of the inaugural session is a former prime minister, Professor Sadi Irmjk, who headed a caretaker, non-party government for some months in 1974-75. He is the personification of political centrism, so dear to the generals. He is also a distinguished doctor and a distinguished lawyer. Five women are included in the assembly, and two are doctors.

Apart from the professional politicians, the only elasses who feel aggrieved seem to be the opticians and the chiropodists, who are oot represented. Of the 160 members, 21 are retired military officers, a much lower proportion than was widely forecast. The most eminent names are perhaps the director

It means "coastal", and "coastal" here brings to mind oot only the local customs and culture but the interaction of ceoturies of Arabs, Portuguese, British and others who have come in from the sea. Reflecting this interaction the word "shahili" is, in fact, of Middle Eastern origin, deriving from the Arabic word for coastal, "sahil"

WASHINGTION (WP) - Ancient earttworks in Louisiana may be the world's largest astronomical calculator, according to recentdiscoveries bytwoscieotists who have studied the ruins for years. The 3,800-yearold carthworks in northeastern Louisiana are arranged in six great octagons, ooe inside the other, with passages radiating out of all eight corners. The whole mooumeot, made of dirt idges, measures about three quarters of a mile across. Each nf the eight sides of the octagoo is about 1,300 feet loog. The best known of the ancient astronomiccal calendars in the world is at Stonehenge in Eogland. But the ring of stones that makes up Stoochenge's calendar, by comparison, is only a few hundred feet across,

The great mooument at what is called Poyerty Point, La., was built by people who car-ried basketfuls of dirt and heaped them up to form the ridges that make the sides of the octagons,

The scieotists say half a million cubic yards of dirt must have been moved to make the octagons, making it the most massive of all monuments in the ancient world. It is lower, but much more massive than the great pyramids of Egypt, according to archeologist William Hang, who recently retired from Louisiana State University and has studied. the Poverty Point structures for 25 years.

The unusual ridged mounds at Poverty int have been iowil top archeologist since the turn of the century, but the array is so large that the concentric octagons could not be seeo until 1954 when the first acrial photos were taken. "Then the whole earthwork just appeared to us," Haag said, "we were aware of the ridges, but the magnitude of them never entered our heads, or that they were man made, until we saw those pictures." It was oot until the mid-1970s that Haag began to think that this great array was not only man-made, but might serve as an astrooomical calendar as the Stoochenge monument does. In the last two years he and said.

astronomer Kennetch Brecher of Bostc University made the measurements and cr culations to check the idea.

Haag said that if an abserver stands in th middle of the earthworks and looks down th aisles that radiate from the center, each ais probably pointed to a special position of the sun, moon or some hright star.

The three lanes left uneroded point wes ward. At the summer solstice, the loogest da of the year, the sun sets directly in the ceou of one of the aisles. At the winter solstice, th shortest day of the year, the sun sets in th other still-intact aisle. A third aisle points (the north star, Haag said.

Haag believes the mooumeot was used h people of the area - about 5,000 at the tim occupied the village at the site - to mark th key times of the year for hunting and gather ing wild food.

One interesting point, Haag noted, is tha all the greatest ancieot monuments wer begun at about the same time, about 3,80 years ago, Stonehenge, the great pyramid: and the Poverty Point earthworks were al begun then.

David Thomas of the American Museun of Natural History said that some scholars' though impressed by the size and pattern o. the huge monument, are doubtful that thi. and other ancient monuments were used a astronomical calendars.

Hong Kong lifestyles cause mental problems

By Chan Hok-Keung

HONG KONG (R) - The frenetic pace of life in Hong Kong and adjustment problems facing Chinese immigrants and Victnamese refugees have led to higher incidences of mental illness here, according to medical officials

The opening of a new, 20 million hospital this nonth by the governor, Sir Murray Maclehose, marked a milestone in mental health service, increasing by 60 percent the number of hospital beds for disturbed patients. But the governor stresses that much more needed to be done, especially in ontpatient treatment.

Accordingly, he said, the government plans to establish four more hospitals in the British colony and an equal number of psychiatric centers during the next five years.

Dr. P.S. Shum, medical superintendent of the oew, 1,400-bed Kwai Ching hospital, the biggest mental hospital in Asia, said that about 200,000 people - or nearly four percent of the colony's 5.2 million population --might oeed psychiatric help.

Among the principal factors he cited for psychiatric disorders were the pressures of life in a community which, with 4,850 people per square kilometer is one of the most densely populated in the world, and its busy urban environment.

Just as important was the growing cultural generation gap within the predominantly Chinese population: The conflicting tug betweeo traditional values and Western influences and the intensive pressure by parents on children to succeed in school. Some 70 percent of patients suffering from schizophrenia were aged betweeo 20 and 40. Dr. Shum said.

The situation is aggravated by the huge influx of immigrants from China and Vietnamese refugees, who face adjustment problems in language and customs, according to another official, Dr. K.L. Thong, director of medical and health services.

Considerable progress has been made during the past 20 years in medical services for the mentally ill, as official figures attest, and there has been some success in overcoming prejudice against those with meotal diso. ders.

Present psychiatric facilities include 3,70 beds and 180 day-care hospital place whereas the only facility in 1960 was a sma hospital providing limited treatment to ou patients.

In 1960, when the population was about three million, 845 new patients were treated

But the number admitted into governmen hospitals rose to 4,263 last year from 3,106 i 1975 when the exodus of Vietnames refugees began in carnest and illegal immis ration from China got inth full swing.

The second major mental hospital here occupying an area of 4.45 hectares (11 acres) has admitted patients since last November providing great relief for the smaller, over crowded Castle Peak Hospital which npene in 1961.

Civil rights campaigners in Western coun. tries oppose psycho-surgery on grounds the it can change the patieot's personality. Bu Dr. Shum said such surgery would be carrie out only if other forms of treatment ha failed.

MOSCOW (R) - It was clear from the!" start that the eight-story red brick complex being built in central Moscow was no ordinary project. Absent are the stout Russian women with paint-splattered head scarves, traditional to most Soviet construction sites. Instead hard-hatted young soldiers swarm around the scaffolding and when the site is closed at night a militaray guard is placed at the gates.

Work has gone on speedily, apparently untroubled by the sudden shortages of raw materials that normally bedevil all but priority projects in the Soviet Unioo.

Another curious fact was noted shrewdly by one observer. "The first thing they did when they had built the walls was to put shut- . ters on the wiodows."

There is no sign at the site - but it does not need one.

Moscow's open secret is that smart new offices are being built for the KGB security volice, though its main headquarters are likely to remain in the huge brownstone just across the street.

The expansion of the Moscow headquarters of the KGB, or Committe for State Security, symbolizes the organization's gradual growth in prestige under the leadership of Leonid Brezhnev.

Western diplomats say that m recent years the Kremlin has been at pains to improve the public image of the KGB whose excesses during the rule of dictator Josef Stalin left few families in the Soviet Union untouched.

On the death of Stalin in 1953 the KGB emerged all-powereful under the leadership of the dictator's ootorious Lt. Lavrenty Beria.

Wheo Nikita Krushchev gained power, however, he started curbing the massive arbitrary power the KGB had accumulated. The present-day trend to repairing the image of the KGB while at the same time keeping a tight rein nn its activities began, according to diplomats, in 1976 when Yuri Andropov was appointed to head the organization.

Andropov, was by background a Communist Party functionary and diplomat and his appointment was seen as hringing the KGB under tight party control. When he became a member of the ruling party Politburo the organization at the same time gained considerable prestige.

But in a remark calculated to assure the Soviet public that the dark days of Stalin were a thing of the past, Brezhnev paid tribute to Andropov's "clean irreproachable hands."

Since then, though public references to the organization remain a rarity, the KGB has grown in respectability with several of its leading lights moving up the Soviet power echeloos. At the last party congress in February, Gen. Semhoo Tsvigun, oumber two to Andropov, and Deputy Chairman Gen. Geogy Tsinev and Col. Gen. Viktor Chebrikov, were promoted to full membership of the policy-making central committee.

Gen. Tsvigun and Gen. Tsinev, aged 74, now regularly figure in afficial welcoming parties greeting Brezhnev on his return from trips away from the Soviet capital — a clear sign of political favor.

The KGB is responsible for intelligence and counter-intelligence operations both at home and abroad and keeping an eye on_ internal "crimes against the state."

An elite corps, its duties also include such priority work as guarding to Kremlin person- . nel and ensuring security at big state occasions.

It is also responsible for the security nf Soviet borders and according tn latest Western estimate maintains a horder guard force numbering about 300,000.

This field has provided most scope in recent times for the KGB's image-makers. Books and films have appeared extolling the virtues of the men who guard Soviet frontiers day and night, while May 28 - official border guards day - is marked by glowing official tributes to their heroism and vigil-

The 74-year-old Brezhnev in his keynote speech at the party congress praised the KGB for keeping "a sharp and vigilant eye on intrigues of imperialist intelligence" and later bestowed on them the rare public honor of attending a top-level in Moscow.

One of Moscow television's most popular productions this year was a four-part dramatization of an operation mounted in the early 1920s by the CHEKA, the first Soviet security organization from which the KGB Sprang.

The serial, made in consultation with Gen. Tsinev, recounted how CHEKA agents lured back to the Soviet Union and then arrested a notorious anti-Bolshevik leader, Boris Savinkov.

The serial ended with Savingkov being imprisoned after conceding the legitimacy of Soviet power. It did not mention Savinkov's end, although it is popularly accepted in Moscow that he leapt to his death driven the cen-tral starwell of Lubyanka Prison.

The success of efforts to revamp the image of the KGB before the Soviet public are, however, debatahle. The Stalinist image of an all-powerful organizatioo watching the Soviet citizen's slightest move is not easily exercised.

KGB operations against the dissidence movement have provided stiff reminder to Soviet citizens of the effectiveness of the organization in dealing with breaches nf Communist legality at home.

In the past five years, a drive by the KGB against human rights groups inside the Soviet Union has led to lengthy labor camp and exile terms for the country's dissident leaders.

Most dissidents reject the notion that the KGB's powers have been greatly curtailed and maintain that considerable repression still cootinues throughout the Soviet Union. Savoring a victory the dissidence, Gen. Tsvigun wrote recently in the party journal Kommunist that the most active "anti-social elements" had been brought to justice and "prophylactic work" carried out with those who had been "misled".

Soviet youth, he said, was a particular object of foreign propaganda which tried to suggest that the Soviet model of democracy could be improved.

The ambivalent attitude nf mnst Soviet citizens toward the KGB was summed up by a Russian girl who told a Western correspondent recently: "The KGB is a great and good organization."

Then she added as an afterthought: "And one that I never want to have dealings with."

Suspicions voiced Namibian mission visits Angola today

LISBON, Oct. 25 (R) - Angola, the black state most immediately concerned by the future of Namibia (Southwest Africa), will hear Monday the West's latest proposals for, securing the independence of the South African-controlled territory.

Representatives of the five-nation Western "contact group" arrive in Luanda Monday for talks with Angola which bas a large slice of its territory under South African occupation because of the Nambian problem.

Angola's attitude to the proposals of the Western mission, led by Chester Crocker, U.S assistant secretary of state for African affairs, will be crucial since the country officially describes itself as a "safe rearguard base for the fighters of SWAPO," (the Southwest Africa People's Organization fighting for the independence of Namibia).

Of the five members of the group, Angola has diplomatic relations only with France, West Germany and Britain. Canada and the United States have refused to recognize the Luanda regime owing to the presence of thousands of Cuban troops in Angola.

The Angolan authorities have shown skepticism about the Western mission's chances of success. A long and clearly authoritative article issued by the official Angolan news agency Angop at the weekend was headlined: "Namibia - A Step Forward?"

One of the main problems raised was wbether Pretoria could be expected to negotiate fairly when South African troops were dug in deep into Angola across the Northern border of Namibia. The article said the South African was occupying almost all the territory between the Cunene River and the Namibian frontier in Angop's first official acknowledgment of the extent of Pretoria's latest military thrust.

This means that the South Africans have retaken the city of N'Giva (formerly Percirad Eca), the capital of Cunene province, 45 kms north of the Namibian frontier, and are back in the positions they occupied when they launched their major invasion of southern Angola last Aug. 23

Launda's official journal De Angola has recently carried several articles detailing the loss of N Giva on Oct. 12 and the reoccupation of other strategic towns in Cunene province such as Xangongo (formerly Rocadas) and Mongua by the South Africans.

Angop - the main vehicle for broadcasting Angolan news abroad --- has so far made no direct reference to these military setbacks. This contrasts strongly with the Angolans' reaction at the time of the invasion when Luanda mounted a campaign to alert international public opinion and demanded an emergency session of the U.N. Security Council.

Informed sources in Lisbon said the Luanda authorities seemed to be taking a more cautious attitude so as not to internationalize the problem further and keep their hands free in the negotiations with the West.

The wording of the Angop article seemed to leave the door open for a negotiated compromise over one of the main obstacles raised by South Africa, that of constitutional guarantees for Namihia's white minority.

After referring to the U.S. view that South Africa will only accept implementation of U.N. Security Council resolution 435 on Namihian independence once such guarantees have been secured. Angop mentioned the "understanding of African countries over certain issues without whose solution the whole process could be jeopardized."

But the agency said there were other problems that remained to be solved. "Which countries would form the U.N. force for Namibia? In what circumstances would the U.N. council (for Namibia) recover the right to supervise the transition to independence? Will there be a consensus on free elections to be supervised internationally - that is to say, by the free nations?" Angop asked.

Indonesian extremist to go on trial

JAKARTA, Oct. 25 (R) - An extremist who alleged. to have tried to foment an Iranian-style revolution in Indonesia will go on trial next month, diplomais said Sunday.

Adm. Sudomo, Indonesia's national security chief, told foreign envoys the trial would take place but did not specify what charges would be laid against the man, known as Imron, they said. Sudomo has accused Imron of masterminding the hijacking of an Indonesian DC-9 airliner to Bangkok in March. He said the hijacking was carried out by a group plotting to turn Indonesia into a theocratic Islamic state.

The hijack ended when Indonesian commandos stormed the plane with the permis-sion of Thai authorities and rescued 44 hostages. The pilot, a commando and the five bijackers were killed.

Sudomo told a press conference afterward that the hijackers belonged to a group which attacked a police station in West Java earlier in March. They had demanded the release of gunmen captured in that attack and of detained memhers of an extremist group called the Jihad (Holy War) Movement which tried to stage a rebellion in 1977-78, he said.

Third U.S. doctor conducts oxygen tests atop Everest

KATMANDU, Oct. 25 (AFP) - Dr. Peter Hackett, 35, of Anchorage, Alaska, has set a record on 8,848 meters (29,028 feet) Mount Everest by conquering it solo Saturday from the 8,000 meters final camp of the American Medical Research Everest Expedition (AMREE) at 1530 hours (local time), the Nepalese Ministry of Tourism announced Sunday.

He spent 30 minutes on the summit, carrying out a series of medical tests including measuring wind pressure and the effect of oxygen on the human body. He returned to the fifth and final camp at the South Col (8,000m) at 2000 hours, the announcement stated

Dr. Hackett was the 111th climber to stand on the earth's highest point.

Dr. Christopher Pizzo, 33, a medical doctor from San Diego, California, and member of the AMREE group, reached the summit Saturday at 1230 local time along with a Sherpa guide. Pizzo was the 109th and the Sherpa guide, and Tenzing, 24, the 110th conquerors of the peak.

When Dr. Hackett began his attempt, second Sherpa Nuru Jangbu refused to go with him. It was then feared that the American might have to make a hivouac alone above the South Col. This would have been risky.

When Dr. Hackett started from the final camp he was accompanied by Nuru Jangbu, 30, but the Sherpa had to retreat after half an hour because of foot trouble.

Pizzo and Tenzing, while returning, rested at the bivouac used by the successful 1976 American bicentennial expedition, probably waiting for Dr. Hackett. Pizzo and Tenzing returned to the same camp at the same time, safe and sound.

The message from the Tourism Ministry did not make clear whether the three sum miters returned together or separately. All three are scheduled to leave their final camp for the second camp and will descend to the base camp Monday, the announcement stated. They had used oxygen from the South Col. when they reached the summit.

In Socialist program Spanish regime seen 'fragile'

MADRID, Oct. 25 (AFP) - The Spanish Socialist Workers' Party (PSOE) called for moderation at the close of its national conference Saturday for alertness to alleged infiltration of the government by right-wing Francoists and for united efforts to improve the Socialists' already good chance of winning the next general election.

The conference gave priority to consolidating democracy over carrying out Socialist economic goals. Party secretary-general Felipe Gonalez warned that "objective circumstances" might force postponement of those goals for a quarter century. The delegates agreed that Spain's "transition to democracy" was not yet completed and that 'the regime of freedom is fragile''.

Gonzalez warned in a closing speech that

BBC to retain services

LONDON, Oct. 25 (AFP) --- Five of seven British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) foreign language services threatened to be axed hy the government have been reprieved, The Observer reported Sunday.

The Liberal weekly said that the government was expected to announce Monday the decision to keep French, Spanish, Brazilian, Somali and Burmese in the service, which now broadcasts in 39 languages. Italian and Maltese will be dropped as planned.

The newspaper said that the compromise was decided to fend off an "embarassing back-bench rebellion in the House of Commons".

right-wingers who "only got two percent of votes" in the last election" are coming back to power through the back door and recycling themselves in important posts of the state apparatus due to the current (centrist) govnment's weakness."

With an eye on opinion polls indicating a prohable Socialist victory in the 1983 election, delegates adopted what they called a "realistic" and "wise" program and unanimously reelected Gonzalez as secretarygeneral

The program calls for moderation in pay raises in order to win the key struggle against unemployment. The subject of nationalizing industry was at first left out of the program completely, although an amendment finally stated nationalization could take place in the energy and financial fields.

The program calls for increased taxes on the more favored classes, concerted planning by husiness and labor; surveillance of the financial system hy society and a halt to construction of nuclear power plants.

The conference voted against having Spain enter the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) — "to help diminish the current political and military tension in the world."

The head of the pro-Socialist General Workers' Union (UGT), Nicolas Redondo, expressed reservations about the moderate program. He said Spain's constitution does not bar "pressure in the streets" (through protest demonstrations) and that his labor federation was unwilling "to give a blank check to any party."

NEW DELHI, Oct. 25 (R) - The collapse of the Marxist-led coalition government in assembly. The Times of India said that Nayanar one of the main reasons for the Marrist the southern state of Kerala has imposed a serious setback on Indian Marxists.

The Marxist Communist Party of India (CPM-M), which has always cherished aspirations of spreading into the Hindu heartland, now retains control of only two states in eastern India, West Bengal and Tripura. The Marxist front in Kerala collapsed this week after the Sharad Pawar Congress and the regional Kerala Congress walked out of the sixparty coalition, accusing the Marxists of crushing democratic values and using the police against its political opponents. During 21 months of Marxist rule, the number of political murders in Kerala was higher than in any other state, according to non-Communist opposition parties. Party activists took the law into their own hands as the police stood by, apparently under orders from the state government, it was claimed.

Before the front crumbled, Congress (S) leader A.K. Antony said: "My dreams of a left united front have been shattered. Our partymen at the grassroots level are being liquidated by the thugs of the CPI-M and I have lost count of the political murders since the advent of this ministry."

Antony will now come under pressure for his party to join Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's ruling Congress (I) Party in an effort to form an alternative state administration in Kerala - one of the few states where her party does not rule.

Direct presidential rule from Delhi has now been imposed in Kerala but the state assembly has been kept in suspended animation rather than being dissolved in the hope that a new coalition will emerge. The outgoing Marxist Chief Minister E.K. Nayanar says

U.S. envoy Heavily protected Guernica goes on show

MADRID, Oct. 25 (AFP) - Picasso's massive painting "Guernica", often considered the 20th century's most celebrated work of art, is certainly the world's most heavily protected as it goes on show here for the first time.

The government has spent 130 million pesetas (abont $1,450,000) on safeguarding the painting which is valued at $40 million. There are fears that it could be damaged, destroyed or even seized by right wing extremists who have always looked on Picasso as a Communist, or Basque extremists angered at the fact that the painting does not hang in the town it is named after. Picasso painted the work in exile in Paris to commemorate the destruction of Guernica on April 26, 1937 by Nazi planes fighting on the side of Franco in the civil war. He refused to allow it to be exhibited in Spain either during his lifetime or after his death, until the return of democracy there.

"Guernica" is housed in the Cason Del Buen Retiro annex of the Prado Museum, The annex is an imposing huilding with colonnades, built in 1632 by King Philippe 1V, housing valuable 19th century paintings and sculptures. It was closed to the public last Sept. 10 when "Guernica" arrived from New York after 40 years in the Museum of Modern Art there.

The authorities permitted newsmen to have a preview last Friday, before it is open to the public Sunday, the centenary of Picasso's birth, and they were able to see the formidable protection that it enjoys.

Access to the central room, through an armor-plated door, is down a long tunnel which gives guards the opportunity to make an electronic search for arms and other metal objects, as at airports. A closed circuit television watches all visitors.

The huge central room is 23 X 13 meters, and except for the high ceiling painted in 1692 by Italy's Lucas Jordan, it has been entirely repainted in the three "Guernica" colors - white, grey and black. The grey flooring is fireproof, and the walls are white.

The painting, which is 7.8 X 3.5 meters (about 25 ft. 6 ins. long and 11 ft. 6 ins. high), is protected by a triple sheet of hulletproof glass and nobody can get closer than six meters. Three television spy cameras record every move for armed security guards in an observation room nearby.

Some art lovers have complained that the cost of all these precautions is an insult to equally great works in the Prado - like paintings by Velasquez, Goya, Bosch, Fra Angfelico, Botticelli, Rubens and Rembrandt - which do not benefit from such extraordinary and expensive protection.

Heath to head global agency on intelligence

LONDON, Oct. 25 (AP) - Former Brit-ish Prime Minister Edward Heath is to head the supervisory board of a privately funded international intelligence agency assessing political and economic developments around the world, The Sunday Telegraph reported, Chients will be companies, institutions and governments, the newspaper said.

The agency plans to "read every publication in the world" and store the selected material in a computer, and "monitor every radio broadcast, 24 hours a day, throughout the year," the report said.

Heath, who was Conservative prime minister from 1970 to 1974 and retains his seat in the House of Commons, will receive 50,000 pounds ($91.000) a year salary, said the report. He was not available for comment early Sunday. The Dutch-based agency is being called International Reporting and Information Systems Holdings - IRIS.

MADRID, Oct. 25 (AFP) - Although is the world's second-largest produ 171 persons have died since May 1 in Spain after ingesting adulterated cooking oil, doctors and scientists have not yet found the toxic agent responsible for the deaths. Consequently, no remedy has been developed for the toxic reaction.

Toxic agent in Spanish oil

On Oct. 17, six American doctors from the Contagious Diseases Control Center in Atlanta, Georgia, (affiliated with the World Health Organization) arrived here to work with Spanish bealth authorities in trying to track down the fatal ingredient.

"The illness is totally new in the history of world medicine," Dr. Clark Heath said at apress conference, adding that it is a complex illness of variable nature with a wide variety of symptoms. Dr. Jose Rigaun said that the disease's symptoms have changed since its first appearance May I. "It manifested itself first by symptoms resembling pneumonia," he said, "hnt now it appears as a painful, neuro-muscular syndrome that produces' paralysis." For this reason the disease, which originally was called atypical pneumonia then toxic pneumonia is increasingly referred to here as toxic syndrome.

The massive search for adulterated oil that began on June, 11, when Spain's directorgeneral nf bealth attributed the disease to that substance, is still under way. On Oct. 9, health inspectors discovered a stock of oil labeled "Jap," one of the first hrands to be prescribed. The list has grown to 21 brands, but the most pernicious oil is sold unlabeled. in small retail outlets.

Dutch fear being swamped by satellite ads

THE HAGUE, Oct. 25 (AFP) - The-Netherlands is on the verge, it is feared here, of its television sets being swamped by advertisements transmitted by space satellites.

More than 20 written questions on this. have been set down in parliament this week. reflecting wide-scale public concern at commercial television programs being beamed down direct to private homes.

Meanwhile, the leading daily newspaper. De Volkskrant has blamed a senior executive with the European Space Agency (ESA) for having close ties with a Dutch private commercial television firm. The first commercial television blast in the Netherlands came from Britain.

H. Hermsen, the director of international relations for the Netherlands post office, has admitted that he was "taken for a ride" by British colleagues.

He said that the British post office had obtained a transmission channel on the current ESA space communications satellite for its relay with Malta, and had then ceded it to a private commercial firm Satellite TV Limited which planned to use this channel for distributing programs, mainly to the Netherlands.

The dutch post office has since put in a request for a satellite channel to be made available to the Dutch firm Euro-TV.

Questioned on this request, the Netherlands post office has stated that it knew nothing of the background or intentions of Euro-TV and was simply forwarding its demand.

The Cultural Affairs Ministry, responsible for television, then stepped in to warn that commercial television transmissions were illegal. Parliamentary questions are asking for clarification on the role of Euro-TV, and the apparent laxity of the Netherlands post office in its dealings with it. At this stage De Volkskrant revealed that one of the founders of Euro-TV is Dennis Brown, who is also a senior executive of the ESA who is seconded to the European Space Research and Technology Center (ESRTC) at Noordwijk, near The Hague.

Sources at the headquarters of ESRTC, which supervises European space projects, confirmed that Brown was "responsible for the promotion of satellites" but made no further comment. The sources said that it was believed that Brown has shares in Euro-TV.

Officials at the Netherlands Directorate-General of Telecommunications said Sunday that as satellite TV channels were scarce, one that was available to a private TV company would be "worth a fortune." "Space is beginning to look more and more like an earthbound business jungle," they commented.

Faces exchange crisis Iran oil sales cover only 40% of imports

NICOSIÕ, Oct. 25 (AFP) - Iran's crude oil exports for September covered only 40. percent of the country's imports that month, according to the latest edition of the Middle East Economic Survey (MEES) published bere.

Iran exported an average 500,000 barrels of crude per day in September, representing income of about $550 million for the month, against $300 millioo in imports, said the MEES.

The publication said Iran has $3,000 mil-'ion in currency reserves, barely enough to cover two mooths' imports.

Meanwhile, the organization of oil produc-ing countries, of which Iran is a member, is trying to agree on a oew unified pricing sys-tem to replace the chaotic and confusing ad hoc present price "system."

The majority of members of OPEC are to hold a special meeting in Geneva Oct. 29 to discuss a unified oil price system and OPEC Secretary Marc Nan Nguema of Gabon said that "we will discuss only new unified prices. Those prices will take effect immediately."

OPEC has already tried in vain, on two occasions this year to reinstitute a unified pricing system but this time the conditions seem to be about right for agreement on reference price of $34 a barrel for crude oil.

OPEC president (and Indonesian oil minister) Subroto said that the organization hopes for unification at $34 a barrel, Saudi Arabia has campaigned steadily for stabilization of oil prices at a level not so high as to damage the economies of the industrialized oations.

In addition to a likely new reference price of $34 a barrel, OPEC members are likely to freeze prices until the middle or close of 1982. The Saudi Arabians have loog cautioned against forcing prices too high, and their message seems likely to be heard now even by OPEC hard-liners.

It is estimated that the world oil surplus is now about 3 million barrels a day, and Saudi Arabia alone is turning out about 9.5 million a day, well above its theoretical permanent ceiling of 8.5 million.

DOr . Oct. 25 (AFP) - While there steen discussion of possible British membe ship in the Europeao Monetary System 'F'IS) for a good two years or more now, s. o membership, never seemed a more realistic possibility than it does oow.

Indeed, the prestigious bead of the West German Bundesbank (ceotral bank), Karl Otto Poehl, said this week that "at the appropriate moment", Britain should join grouping of West European currencies in order to belp stabilize sterling against other European currencies. Moreover, in a widely observed develop-ment, the Bank of England last month boosted interest rates a bit higher to halt a slide in the pound — despite the theoretical hands-off approach of the British government with respect to foreign exchange markets. And Bank of Englaod governor Gordoo Richardson said that failure to act "would have risked provoking a quite unacceptable degree of depreciation" of sterling that would have worsened British inflation.

19th century prices soar hinese bonds

LONDON, Oct, 25, (R) - British investors are taking a new interest in old Chinese bonds, with bopes that the Communist gov-ernmeot in Peking may coosider paying off debts going back to 1898.

Prices for the boods have risen in receot days on the Lodoo stock exchange, and people who like to collect them for their decorative value also are paying more. But hopes that the boods will be paid off are oot being encouraged by Chinese officials in Peking. The Communists, who took over the country in 1949, say they bear no responsibility for funds raised by the imperial and nationalist governments.

"The Chinese cannot take responsibility for this," a senior financial official told Reuters in Peking receotly. Secured by taxes on salt, customs duties and railway revenues, the sterling bonds with a face value of about 61 million sterling ($111 million) and dating from 1898 to 1938 once provided handsome divideods for investors. But oo payments have beeo received from China for more than 40 years.

The increase in prices on the Londoo stock exchange appears to bave been sparked by speculation in financial circles that China is thinking of a settlemeot to improve its standing in the financial world. If so, China would not have to pay off all the debt. It would not have to redeem some bond exceptionally valuable to collectors ready to pay vastly higher prices than seeo in the stock exchange

Rarity enhances the 4-1/2 percent Anglo-German gold loan to China of 1898 for collectors who call themselves

But they would be worth about 3,500 sterling ($6,400) on the collectors' market, said Robin Hendi, a stockbroker and coosultant to W.H. Collectible, a London firm selling to collectors.

PARIS, Oct. 25 (AFP) - Among the many problems given priority by France's leftist government is the restructuring of ailing industries which provide many jobs and have the potential to make a major contribution to ecocomic growth and exports - and high among these is the textile sector.

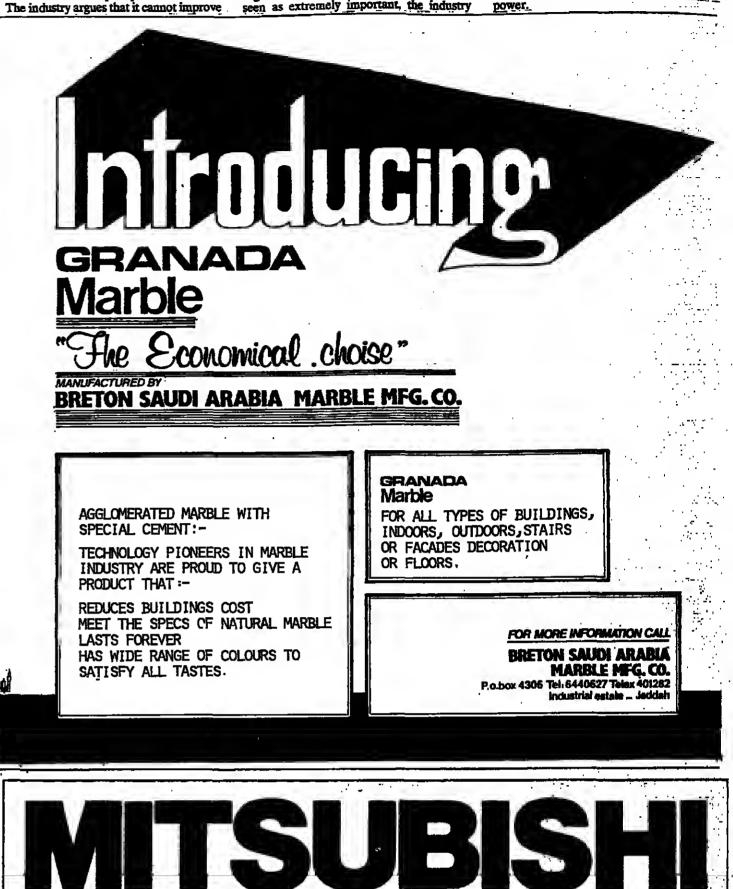

The government is working oo a draft strategy, but the industry, meanwhile has made it clear that it sees the main requirement reduction of import penetration.

restricted to 40 percent of the domestic market against the current 50 percent, Industry leaders want stricter enforcement of customs controls coupled with deposits paid for imports excluding raw materials not produced in France.

The third multi-fibre accord, which is due to come into force in January, should be made tighter than the curreot accord, they argue. But while the reduction of imports is seen as extremely important, the industry also wants to see an easing of the various charges it must pay. It is argued that the French textile industry has to carry higher charges than those borne by overseas competitors.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1981

For example, social charges are said to be more than twice as high than in West Germany in the textile sectory. And paradoxically, the industry is asking the government to help it cope with the increase in the minimum wage decreed after the Socialists came to power.

Talks open today ft over budget confronts EEC Nguema holds talks with

BRUSSELS, Oct. 25 (R) - EEC foreign ministers meet here Monday still deeply divided over reform of the European Economic Community (EEC)'s overloaded budget despite months of discussion,

During their two-day talks the ministers will also meet envoys from Spain and Porto join the EEC, and try to finalize a joint position for forthcoming international trade talks on textiles.

But EEC sources said their main task would be to try to make further progress on the budget negotiations. At issue is the amount that member states should pay into. and receive from, the community's $25 billion budget and the spending priorities the 10-natioo EEC should adopt. The EEC commission, hacked most strongly hy Britain, has been pressing for curbs on farm spending which swallows two thirds of the budget. But countries like France, Ireland and the Netherlands, whose large farming communities benefit from this bias, have put up considerable resistance.

The ministers will examine proposals drawn up by the commission last week on farm spending, which mainly concectrate on attempting to curb costly surpluses of dairy and grains. Guaranteed prices and export subsidies for milk, hutter and cereals production account for about half the EEC's annual spending oo its cootroversial commoo agricultural policy (CAP).

But diplometic sources said differences in approach are still so great that only a summit meeting in London at the end of next month seems likely to be able to give decisive impetus to budget reform. Controversial negotiations on a third multi-fiber arrangement (MFA) regulating textiles trade hetween industrial and developing countries are also due to resume next month in Geneva, and the EEC has yet to finalize its factics.

Several EEC countries, notably Britain and France, have urged more protection for their ailing textiles industries. But the developing and industrializing countries are pushing for a reduction in trade restrictions, and diplomatic sources said they are likely to get support from West Germany and Denmark.

France and Italy, on the other hand, favor raising the existing trade barriers hy cutting the quotas accorded to developing countries in bilateral agreements negotiated under the MFA, the sources said. "The difference in views is enormous and we will have difficulty bridging the gaps," a British diplomat said.

Sudan intensifies oil search

KHARTOUM, Oct. 25 (R) -- Sudan, one of the world's least developed nations, is to streogthen its position as an oil state within the oext three years, Sudanese Evergy Minister Sharif El-Tuhami said Sunday.

He said in an interview that Sudan, Africa's biggest state, had alreedy discovered enough oil to make it largely self-sufficient. When a oew refining complex came oo stream in 1984, Sudan would be able to slash $500 millioo a year from its fuel import bill, Dr. Tuhami told Reuters.

Four new oil prospecting agreements were currectly being negotiated. One with the Anglo-American Phillips Company for loration rights in a 74,500-square-mile (120,000-square-kilometers) strip in northern Sudan would probably be signed oext month, he said.

"The more drilling we do, the more we discover. Sudan is so big," he said. Oil was first discovered by Chevroo of Sudan, a sub-sidiary of the U.S. glaot Standard Oil of California (SOCAL), in 1978.

Dr. Tuhami said the company estimated reserves in its unity field in the southern sector of the couotry at between 80 and 100 millioo barrels. Government estimates were some 20 million barrels higher than this,

This field could produce two thousand harrels daily that would be fed into a new refinery to he huilt at Kosti, a town some 200 miles (270 kms) south of Khartoum, within the next three years at a cost of about $600 millico.

mmodities exchange for M.E. mooted

ABU DHABI, Oct. 25 (WAM) - A clear consensus is growing that the setting up of a commodities futures exchange in the Middle East cannot be deleyed any longer.

Two leading personalities in the world of commodities hrokers told Dubai-based English daily Gulf News in the course of this week that such an exchange would serve Arah interests as well as promote the further growth of international trading in the commodities.

Mr. Abdulle Al Alawi, managing director of Unigold International which is an Arah company, incorporated in Luxembourg. states in an interview with the newspaper that the time has come for the setting up of e commodities exchange in the Middle East. Eventually such an exchange could move even into the area of oil futures trading.

Already such a trade has been launched in London this year. It was not unnatural to expect that an oil futures trade should be set up in a region which actually produced most of the world's oil exports.

Another voice was added to AJ Alawi's on this subject. Albert S.C. Chang, who is on a visit 10 Dubai, said that this city was the ideal choice for the setting up of a commodities futures exchange in the Middle East. Indeed, the initial steps now being taken by the UAE Central Bank, to regulate the commodities futures trade in the UAE can very well serve as a harbinger of developments which could finally lead to the setting up of a commodities exchange in this part of the world. Dodgers stage splendid rally to tie series

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25 (AP) -- Pinch-hitter Steve Yeager's sacrifice fly in the seventh inning snapped a 6-6 tie and the Los Angeles Dodgers scrambled for an 8-7 vic-tory over the New York Yankees Saturday to deadlock the World Series at two games apiece.

The Dodgers scored the runs in the sixth and two more in the seventh to cap a comeback in Game four that changed the complexion of this 78th World Series. Few took the Dodgers chances too seriously after they lost for the first two games in New York. But they are no strangers to adversity.

The Dodgers recovered from a 2-0 deficit to beat Houston in the National League West, Division series, and they trailed Montreal 2-1 in games before winning the National League Championship series. Both were best-of-five, series.

Jay Johnstone's pinch homer, the 13th in World Series history, started the comeback in the sixth inning, and the Dodgers kept coming in the seventh.

Dusty Baker started the inning with a bouncing single to shortstop. By the time the ball dropped from the air, Yankees shortstop Larry Milbourne had no chance in make the play. Rick Monday then doubled under the nutstretched glove of Yankees centerfielder Bobby Brown and Baker held at third.

Yankees reliever George Frazier walked Pedro Guerrero intentionally and Tummy John, the Yankee starter in Game Two, was called in. Yeager, hitting for Mike Scioscia, then hit a line drive Howe sacrificed the runners to second and third, Davey, Lopes came to bat.

Maligned for his fielding earlier in the week, Lopes hit a high bounder that was fielded by Rodriguez at third,. The wait seemed interminable and when the ball finally floated to the ground, Monday had scored.

afternoon, with the Dodgers' Game One starter and loser, Jerry Reuss, going against Ron. Guidry, the Yankees' first-game starter.

The Dodgers began their comeback against Ron Davis in the sixth, when they trailed 6-3. Davis had relieved with one out in the fifth and a run already across. He struck out Baker and Monday to end the inning but then his troubles began.

After Guerrero had flied to center, Davis walked Scioscia, and Johnstone, pinch-hitting for reliever Tom Niedenfuer, drilled a 1-2 delivery over the right-center field fence. to cut the Yankees lead to one. Lopes then hit a high pop to shallow right field, but Jackson lost the ball in the sun. It carromed off his chest and Lopes wound up at second base. -

On Davis' 0-1 delivery to Bill Russell, Lopes stole third without so much as a passing glance from the Yankees right-hander. And, one pitch later, Russel tied it with a single to left.

In the early going, it looked like the Yankees would make a romp of Game. Four Randolph led off the first inning against righthander Bob Welch with a triple that skipped over the head of rightfielder Monday. Milbourne followed with a double that scored Randolph, then a walk to Dave Winfield and a slap single by Jackson loaded the bases. That spelled the end of Welch's stint. He had not started a game for Los Angeles since Oct. 3, the day before the regular season ended, and he had worked only 22-3 innings of relief in the postseason. It showed.

Dave Goltz, Los Angeles' $3 million free agent, relieved Welch and got out of the inning, Goltz struck out Rodriguez and Yankees starter Rick Reuschel to get two quick outs in the second. Randolph, however, hit his second homer of the postseason, picking on a 1-2 Goltz pitch which he pushed over the fence in right-center, giving New York a 3-0 lead.

ing a run after two outs. With one out, Jackson singled up the middle but was erased by Oscar Gamble's grounder to short. Bob Watson walked and Rick Cerone singled to left,

In the bottom of the third, Los . Angeles got two back. Ken Landreaux, pinch hitting for Goltz, doubled down the third field line and scored when Lopes hit Reuschel's first pitch into right for a single. Lopes stole second and, one out later, be advanced to third on an infield single by Garvey. Cey drove him home with a grounder to short.

The Dodgers scratched back within a run in the fifth on a double by Gravey, followed by

The Yankees struggled in the ninth when, with one out, Cerone singled up the middle. Pinch-hitter Barry Foote fanned, and Yanklees manager Bob Lemon sent Bobby Murcer in to hitfor John. "Karpov played very well, very good chess." U.S. grandmaster Robert Byme said: "He did a good job on the isolated pawn," referring to Korchnoi's lone pawn in the center of the board.

The first player to win six games wins the championship. Draws don't count.

In the title match in 1978 in the Phillipines, Karpov led Korchnoi by the same 4-1 margin, but only after 17 gam: had been played. Karpov subsequently led 5-2, then Korchnoi made a tremendous comeback to level the score at 5-5, but Karpov won the final game to retain his title.

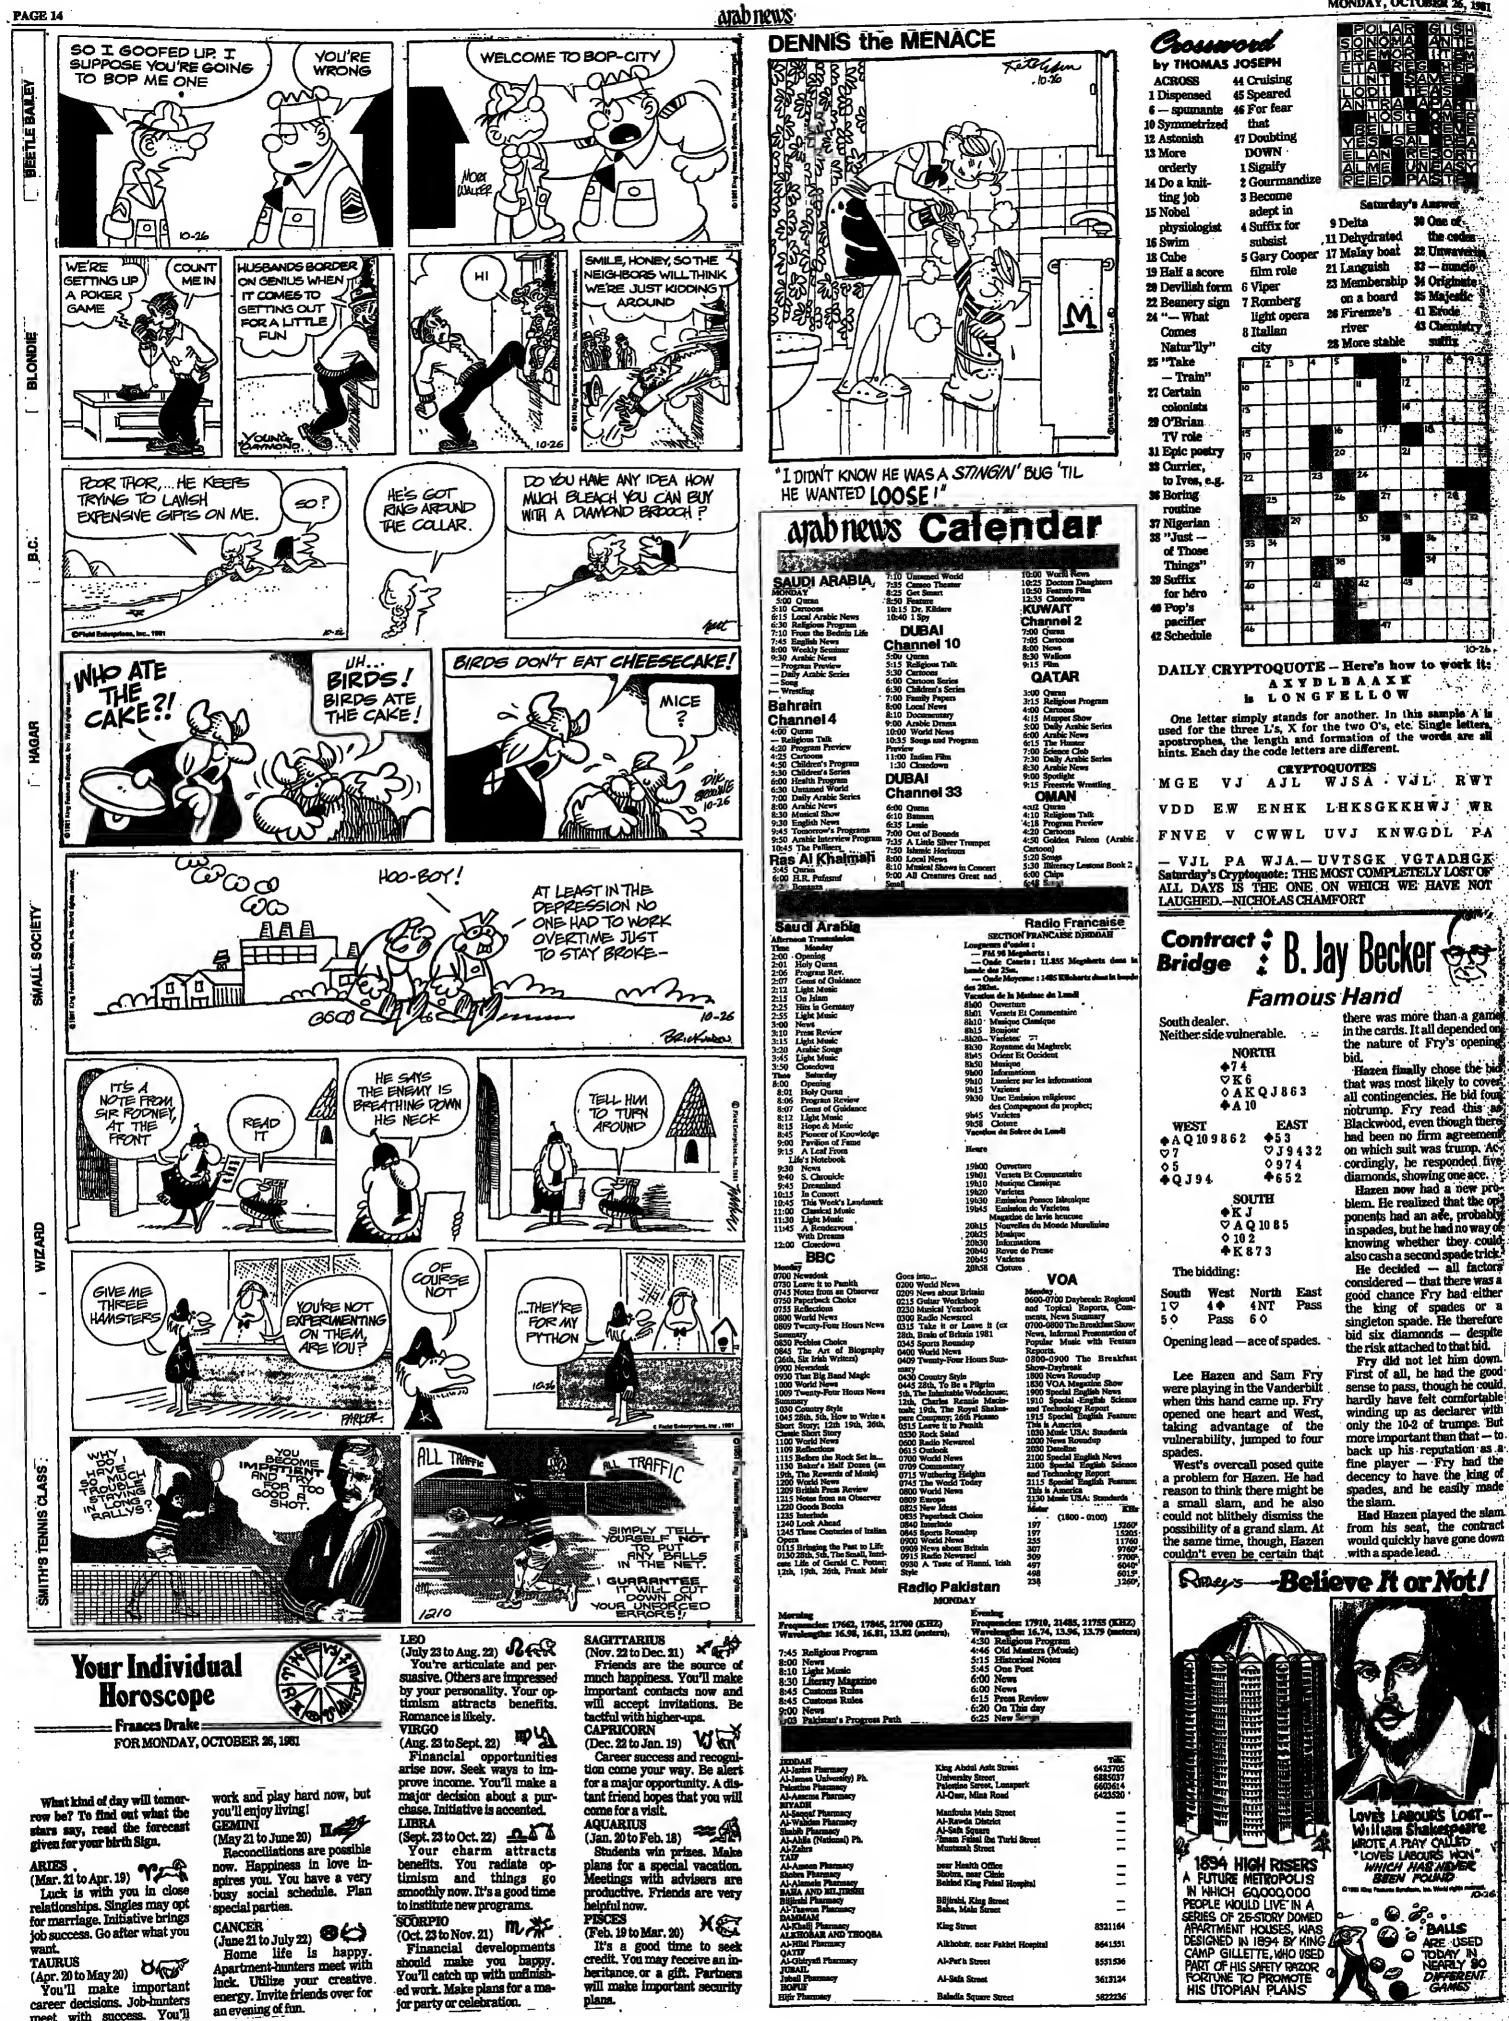

Many experts believe Korchnoi, at 50, cannot make such a comeback again against the 30-year-old Karpov.

The age of the players is important because the physical and mental strains of playing chess are enormous. Experts say it is more exhausting than many competitive sports.

Government warns union Striking Poles defy appeal by Solidarity

WARSAW, Oct. 25 (Agencies) - Several regional union hranches in Poland have apparently ignored Solidarity leaders' appeal to end their strikes. Union sources said general strikes launched several days ago in most industrial centers in the country were continuing Sunday. Local leaders of the independent trade union said they were not "concerned" by the appeal issued Friday by Solidarity's national coordinating commission. They said their actions "did not contradict" the commission's directive that members call off protests and wildcat strikes reportedly being waged in two-thirds of the country.

The regional leaders also stressed their intention to continue protests until their claims — better food supplies and the dismis-sal of certain afficials — were satisfied. A strike alert was still in effect, notably in the central Piotrkow-Trybunalski reginn.

The union commission has called a onehour nationwide strike for Wednesday to protest receot police actions against union activists. A large number of local Solidarity chapter leaders are to meet Monday to discuss the appeal. The commission is hoping the one-hour strike will come off as a show of labor unity in Poland.

Meanwhilc the Polish government has issued a sharp warning to Solidarity, telling the union that bllateral talks will "lose all meaning" if it does not cease its "policy of opposition in the form of strikes," In a statement broadcast on national television Saturday night, the governmental committee on union relations reproached Solidarity leaders for "carrying on an economic war" and "sabotaging" Polish production.

The committee expressed "deepest coocern" and emphasized that "anarchy cannot be tolcrated." The "restraiot and good will that the authorities have shown in their ralations (with the unioo) bave been interpreted as a sign of weakness and have been ahused," the committee said. It said that in the interest of the nation "such a situation cannot continue."

In an interesting development the progovernment Democratic Party of Poland has called for reorganization of the country's political system to include the trade unions and the church, the official PAP news agency said Sunday.

phenomena". Police have stopped Solidarity activists distributing leaflets branded as anti-state twice in the past week.

Stanislaw Closck, minister for trade toach affairs, in a televised statement, said Poland's stocks of manufactured goods had fallen by one-third since this time last year. If strikes continued, chances of being able to supply the population for the winter would diminish. he said.

The supply of warm clothes and sboes was particularly desperate and every third sbop selling these articles could be forced to close for lack of goods, he added.

Ciosek said government actions were hampered by vetoes from Solidarity at every turn and although it was true the government had made mistakes," "society will sooner or later be able to distinguisb the results of past mistakes from the results of economic sabotage."

Gibraltar's future lies withSpain --U.K.panel

GIBRALTAR, Oct. 25 (ONS) - Events in the next two months could be crucial to the future of the 30,000 persons who live oo the British Rock of Gibraltar.

Toward the end of the month the British government will be stating its official view on a controversial report by the House of Commons Foreign Affairs Committee hinting that the Rock's political future lies with Spain, which has consistently called for its return since it was captured by the British in 1704.

The committee has also recommended that one way out of the current siege of the Rock - the continuing closure of the frootler with Spain - is for Spaniards to be granted the same rights on the Rock as citizens of the European Economic Community. This is strongly opposed by the Gibraltarians, who

Frenchmen denounce unilateral arms cut

VALENCE, France, Oct. 25 (AFP) - The French Socialist Party ended its three-day congress here Sunday with a strong denuncia-tion of unilateral disarmament. But in his closing speech, the party's secretary-general, Lionel Jospin, called on the Socialists to launch a national petition for peace and disarmament hased on principles "recognized and applied by both sides."

With an eye on the buge peace rallies in Europe this weekend, and with a Soviet delegation in the hall listening to his speech, Jospio said ringingly: "No to unilateral pacifist sentiments.

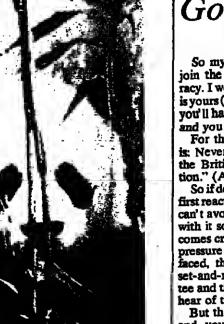

Congress delegates stressed that their major task was the fight against unemploy-meot, and to ensure that "those who made the change (to a left-wing government) possible should be the main beneficiaries."

But the Socialists appeared, in general, uneasy in their new role as the ruling party, and accused the government of not changing things fast enough. Earlier, some of the more revolutiooary delegates called for the heads of those business leaders and cabinet ministers who were "sabotaging" the govern-meot's economic efforts,

But Jospin urged delegates not to be too hasty, stressing that the government could not do everything at once and that the party had time on its side to prepare for even bigger victories in future elections. He said the congress had given the government" a big warn-ing and a formidable shove," but upbraided delegates for their bad manners in booing Eastero bloc visitors, particularly the Soviet delegation, Friday. He said the Socialists had two big tasks -- to overtake Communist domination in the country's factories and lauoch a campaign explaining the government's policies. Jospin took issue with research minister Jean-Pierre Chevenement, who had called on Socialist delegates to become more militant. Taking a milder line, be said they should aim at being the "guardians of the Socialist program, to fight for the party and become a force in French society." Jospin, a close political ally of President

PEKING, Oct. 25 (AFP) - Jail sentences are the order of the day for anyone found killing a panda, the shy, furry animal unique to China which now faces extinctioo as a species.

A New China News Agency report Sunday on the Wolong oature reserve in southwestern Sichuan province, one of 10 reserves where the Chinese are trying to preserve the panda, noted that "hunting of pandas is strictly forbiddeo" at Woloog and in the nine other oatural habitats for Pandas in China. "A jail sentence is the peoalty for deliber-ately killing a panda", the agency said, Earlier, Rocard, whose star many observers considered to be on the wane, made a strong speech underlining his leadership qualities. The delegates' speeches were marked by a notable "revolutionary tone".

Good Morning By Jihad Al Khazen

So my son, my daughter, you want to join the miri, the civil service, bureaucracy. I wouldn't advise it, but the decision is yours (if s also probably the last decisioo you'll have to make if your effort succeeds and you do join.)

For the golden rule of any civil service is: Never decide. Just let it drift -- what the British used to call "masterly inaction." (And just look where it got them.)

first reaction should be avoid it. And if you can't avoid it then try to lumber someone with it so that he can avoid it. And if he comes crying to you complaining that the pressure is on and that the issue has to be faced, then you make your final gameset-and-match move: appoint a committee and that'll be the last anyone will ever hear of the matter.

But the impossible sometimes happens and your boss calls yon in and says Smithers, lad, I've got bad news for you. Sit down first and have a glass of cold water, and I shall try to break it to you gently. No, no, your house hasn't burned down. Nothing as trivial as that. It's only that you must tell me your view on the matter I sent you. I want a concrete, deci-sive recommendatioo one way or the other.

You come out of your dead faint just in time to hear him tell his secretary: God, I hate doing this to a man. Make him give a clear-cut yes or no once every ten years. But it's a jungle, this life, that's what it is, So beave no Smithers and tell me your changes. "Robbisb !" the boss shouts. "Utter rubhish ! You call that a considered view? I might as well have asked the lamp posts themselves,"

For you see your part is the heartrend-ing drama has just finished. And now he's in it up to the oeck. He, poor fellow, will have to make the decision over your recommendatioo, Aod it's "OK. Smithers, I think a committee will have to go into every aspect of your recommendatioo.. Manpowerwise... materialwise... real effectiveness wise ... even aesthetieswise ... No use hurrying into the thing, what, fools rush in and so forth..." Translated from Asharg Al -Awast

The Democratic Party called in a resolution passed at a central committee meeting this weekend for a more comprehensive body than the Communist-controlled national unity front, when it said was no longer relevant, PAP said. Publication of the resolution in the official media was a sign of how far liberalization has gone in Poland in the past 15 months. It came amid reports that the Communist Party is prepared to invite the independent trade union Solidarity into some sort of coalition.

The resolution by the Democratic Party said the front, of which it is a member, was not at present an accepted forum for the solution of the country's problems, PAP said. Well-placed Communist Party sources said Friday any form of coalition to include Solidarity would still have to be based on acceptance of the party's leading political role.

The sources said a process of co-governing decision-making was envisaged, but that it remained to be seen whether Solidarity would accept such a subservient role and abandon its demand for non-party state council to control the economy and give up its long-term goal of free elections.

The government said Friday it was deploying troops to help distribute food and other supplies and oppose what it called "negative

In alleged transcript KGB-defector talk recalled

LONDON, Oct. 25, (AP) - "Maxim, old chap, don't do anything stupid." That's how a Soviet secret policeman started a telephone talk to try to persuade conductor Maxim Shostakovich not to defect early one morning in West Germany last April.

Without saying how it obtained the alleged transcript, The Sunday Times printed 3,500 words of extracts from the conversation, between KGB man Vladimir Volodya speaking from a public callbox, and the 43-year-old conductor son of the late eminent Soviet composer, Dmitri Shostakovich, who died in 1975.

The conductor and his own pianist son, Dmitri, slipped away from a hotel celebration dinner at the end of a Moscow Radio Symphony Orebestra tour and were driven to a police station in Nuremberg.

Volodya insists on a meeting but Shos-takovicb refuses, saying, "Volodya, my deci-sion is made." Volodya summons other members of the orchestra to the phone and they plead and threateo, but the cooductor does not change his mind and refuses to meet anyone from the Soviet Embassy.

When Volodya appeals to him to think of the hundred other people in the orchestra and of his bomeland, Shostakovich tells him to "go home" and "please do everything so that the orchestra is damaged as little as possible hy my remaining here." Orehestra director Misha Silvestroy comes on the line to join the persuasion. Shostakovich says that he should be able to understand his defection "because you're a human being, and not a spy, like the one who's standing next to you." Silverstrov asks him if he will be happy "this way." Sbostakovich replies, "whether happy or unhappy - I can't live like you do any more."

When another orchestra colleague, identified only as Anatoly, joins in to say that Sbostakovich has not only sinned against the orchestra but "against your state and your culture," the conductor replies: "The state isn't worth a damn."

Anatoly says that the Soviet Union is in the right and will win a future war because it has spent much more than the United States on armaments, Shostakovich says: "Do you want to go to war? I'd like to live in peace, I'm an artist. I don't think artistic life for us in the Soviet Union is bow it might be."

When told that the orchestra will become street sweepers because of bis and other defections, the conductors says, "I know that you didn't expect this of me.'

The two Sbostakovichs later went to the United States. The Sunday Times said it showed the transcript to the conductor, who expressed his distaste that a private conversation was recorded, hut confirmed that it took place and was "approximately what I said."

There were particularly bitter attacks made against bankers, the administration, the press, television and the right wing oppositico,

Louis Mermaz, the speaker of the National Assembly (parliament), was among leading Socialists who called for a "purge". The aim was to remove certain people who, in their view, are guilty of a "veritable sabotage" of the president, his government and his left wing majority.

U.S. 'meddling' in Greece seen MOSCOW, Oct. 25 (AP) - Prawda charged Sunday that Washington has stepped up interference in Greece following the election of Socialist Prime Minister Andreas Papandreou. The Athens' government proposal to change Greece's status in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) has been branded by Washington a threat to the alliance's southern flank, the Soviet Communist Party daily said.

Unconcealed pressure and intimidation, blatant interference in the internal affairs of a sovereign country — the entire arsenal of traditional norms of U.S.-diplomacy — was put to use this time as well," Pravia said

The commentary claimed that the Ronald Reagan administration is treating Greece the same way it tried to deal with Paris after Communists were brought into the oew French cabinet last June.

"At that time, Paris gave a fitting rebuff to those people overseas who like to interfere in the affairs of other nations. But evidently Washington failed to benefit from the lesson," Pravda said.

The newspaper claimed that U.S. criticism of Greece on military matters shows that Washington has no inteotion of easing the "tight grip of Atlantic solidarity on the necks of its NATO partners." under way for 10 years in the Wolong reserve.

Last year a research center to study pandas set up in the 200,000 hectare reserve under the auspices of the World Wildlife Fund and Chinese authorities. According to the latest figures, China's pandapopulation has shrunk from a few thousand at the beginning of this cectury to a mere thousand living in the south and center of the country and some 60 others in captivity. However, according to press reports at the end of last year, the panda population is tend-ing to rise again. A plan to save the hig, black-and-white furred bear-like creatures was set up after nearly 150 pandas died in 1975-76 when their favorite food - bamboo shoots -- disappeared in certain parts of Sicbuan.

NCNA reported that at Wolong, "bonuses and other rewards are given to those who save pandas from their natural enemies and other dangers."

Strong quake jolts Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 25 (R) - A strong earthquake jolted much of central Mexico late Saturday night, sending thousands of people into the streets in panic, but police said there were so far no reported deaths. The quake, which lasted more than a minute, struck exactly a year after a tremor of similar strength killed more than 30 persons in southern Mexico.

Buildings swayed and the 'city glowed and dimmed alternately as street power lines fused. Residents in nightclothes fled then home for open spaces and water and gas mains were also broken.

Local residents said the tremor, which registered 6.4 on the Richter Scale according to the Mexican Geological Institute, was the strongest they bad felt in the capital in many years. The local institute and the U.S. Geological Survey in Golden, Colorado, said the epicentre was on or near the Pacific coast between 200 and 300 miles southwest of Mexico City.
